The Benefits and Drawbacks of Each Business Structure

There are few things more exciting than chasing down a good idea.

The features start coming fast. You're already thinking of smaller add-on ideas that will complement the product or service perfectly. This idea is going to be massive!

That's when the sheer scope of the work needed hits you. The to-do list can be daunting when you start getting down to the details.

But that's when the entrepreneurs separate from the daydreamers.

The details of getting a startup running require focus but are manageable. You just need to look at the pros and cons and make the best decision considering your situation.

And one of the first decisions necessary is how you want to structure your business, so let's take a look at your options.

The Sole Proprietorship

The sole proprietorship is for the solo guy or gal who is keeping things simple. There may or may not be a separate business bank account, and nobody is investing, unless it's a loan or a gift. Read more.

King Law Opens New Office in Transylvania County

King Law is pleased to announce the expansion of its law practice to Transylvania County with the opening of their new office in downtown Brevard. The office is located at 26 E. Main Street, Suites #2 & #3, just across the street from the Transylvania County Courthouse. Attorney Isabel Carson will be leading the Brevard legal team and offering free consultations at the new downtown location beginning on March 2, 2017.

King Law Offices, PLLC is a general practice law firm established in 2002 with its first office in Rutherfordton, North Carolina. Since that time, the firm has expanded services and office locations across western North Carolina and upstate South Carolina. Brian W. King, the owner and managing attorney, stated, "We are excited about our new home in Brevard, and look forward to continued work for our clients in the Transylvania County area. The people of this community have been great to work with, and we have felt support from our clients here for years. Now, we finally are able to make Brevard a home office so we can bring our service to downtown."

Attorney Isabel Carson, a graduate of the Charlotte School of Law, will be practicing in the Brevard office location. Isabel Carson hails from Amelia Court House, a rural town in south central Virginia. She moved to the mountains of western North Carolina to earn her Bachelor of Arts in Literature from the University of North Carolina at Asheville, and has since developed a love for the communities and geography of Southern Appalachia.

King Law practices law in a variety of areas, including family law, civil litigation, criminal law, personal injury, business law, immigration law, Social Security disability, and estate planning, among others. The firm offers a free consultation for many legal matters. Call (828) 490-7888 or toll free (888) 748-KING to schedule an appointment by telephone or at any one of our ten locations in western North Carolina and upstate South Carolina.
